Letter from our CEO

Chris Laslett
CEO
BIP UK & BIP US

I continue to be inspired by how my colleagues strike a healthy work-life balance and prioritise the things that matter. It has been a privilege to join a thriving community of B Corp trailblazers and we are very much inviting you, our clients, suppliers, partners and contacts to join us on this tough yet vital journey.

Letter from our CEO

Chris Laslett – CEO BIP UK & BIP US

During another year of both challenges and opportunities, one theme which stands out to me is: the power of the collective.

My BIP Group colleagues, based across the world in 13 countries, have shown how individual actions compound to achieve great things for both our clients and wider society. Together, we have achieved a lot this year and I am incredibly proud of everyone's hard work and dedication. The way people have so smoothly transitioned into yet another 'new normal' has been impressive.

This year, I also recognise that in several areas we have more to do. Whilst I feel a sense of pride as I look back over the past year, I also feel a renewed drive to take proactive steps to do better.

Our ambitious journey towards becoming a B Corp certified organisation has truly brought all these threads of people, sustainability, community and good governance together.

After two years' work and dedication, we were thrilled to achieve B Corp certification – the result of a real team effort. This process has touched every part of our organisation.

Our B Corp journey has spot-lit where we were already showcasing our commitment to balancing people, the planet and profits, and has also highlighted the areas which need the most urgent attention. Sustainability remains a key value at BIP UK & US.

We are committed to reducing negative impacts on the planet through education, carbon reduction and through supply chain management. This is not easy in the service industry, but we will not let this prevent progress. Our colleagues hold us to account on these commitments every day.

We must improve representation so our senior teams in the business are more diverse. We must ensure that at every stage and in every way, our people feel included and supported. The process has been a reminder that everything is about people.

So, I was particularly proud that we scored highest in the 'workers' theme of B Corp.

We are proud to have been members of the UN Global Compact since 2020. We reaffirm our commitment to the 10 principles aimed at advancing sustainability, equality, and human rights.

We also support the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) that align best with our business practices, and where we can meaningfully report on the key targets and indicators of those goals.

It has been a year of continued learning, growth and sustaining our fun, inclusive culture. Everyone at BIP UK & US works incredibly hard at their jobs, but also in the energy and time they invest in their own learning and giving back. This year BIP UK & US people donated 784 volunteer hours to 25 impactful causes.

This year has also been about a new brand identity, more partnerships with the wider BIP Group and more international presence so we can better serve clients all over the world.

Thank you to everyone at BIP UK & US for making this year such a success. And thank you for your continued support and taking time to read this report.

These annual reports, the stories and data gathered, always provide an important moment for pause and reflection.

This is your invitation to take this time too.

Chris Laslett

At BIP Group, we recognise our role as a leader in bringing innovation to multinational corporations. Our 4,500 consultants are committed to introducing digital solutions that have a high sustainable impact on our clients and their stakeholders.

However, we understand that this is not enough. We are dedicated to becoming more effective every day and building a workplace with a positive and sustainable culture that is inclusive of all. We ensure our policies and process reflect this and are incredibly proud to have achieved B Corp certification in the UK and US, solidifying our commitment to the highest standards in environmental and social governance and the principles of the UN Global Compact.

Our journey towards becoming a more responsible and sustainable business is significant, and the B Corp certification is a fantastic achievement along this path. It gives us a solid foundation to continue working towards positive change for our people, communities, and our planet. Every day I am proud to be a part of this journey and I am motivated by the impact we can make on our people, clients, suppliers, and local communities in the year ahead.

As companies prepare for new ESG regulations in 2023, we will support them to meet the challenges and demonstrate the values that stakeholders and investors are rightly demanding.

As a member of BIP's inclusion council and lead of the Glitter LGBTQ+ equality group, I know that our diversity and inclusion work is never finished.

My colleagues and I strive to showcase and understand the importance of intersectionality and how different forms of discrimination can overlap and compound.

We actively seek out diverse perspectives, to create a culture of belonging, to have a clear and comprehensive diversity and inclusion strategy and to hold everyone accountable for creating an inclusive work environment.

Special Events: Inclusion Week

Jo Mihajlovic

Head of CSR
BIP UK & BIP US

BIP's Inclusion Week is an important time to recognise and reflect on the challenges facing different groups in society who may be less fortunate than ourselves.

This was hosted by our Inclusion Council. We heard personal stories from external speakers which inspired fresh ways to consider and tackle how we make people feel included in the business.

We recognise inclusion is something we need to work at continuously.

At the end of each Inclusion Week, we commit to a new road map of D&I activities and targets. Plus, we give our people tools to implement learnings from the week into their daily practices.

This is not just for our people, but also our clients and reflecting on those we serve in the community.

Award winning collaboration

Sarah Parry
Head of Knowledge

BIP UK

“Over the years, we have worked hard to nurture a digital workplace that makes collaboration seamless.

We have created an environment where we can connect and get work done, no matter where our people are.

We want to prioritise how we use our technology so that everyone feels welcome, supported and included.

As a result, our Yammer network was recognised as the ‘most collaborative network’ of our size in last year’s SWOOP Yammer Benchmarking Survey.

We are now focussing on providing different collaboration options that meet our individual preferences, because we understand the value of listening to every divergent opinion, no matter how quietly expressed.”

Our impact

Julie Lindsell
Management Consultant

When I joined BIP in January 2021, one of my ‘must haves’ was volunteering time.

As a member of First Aid Nursing Yeomanry, it was important that I was supported through BIP to continue volunteering during the working week.

It means that should an incident or event happen at short notice, such as the funeral planning for the late Duke of Edinburgh, and the lying in state for the late Queen Elizabeth II, I am able to take volunteer time off to support.

Showcasing this up front is now more important than ever especially when recruiting amongst the younger generations who are more conscious of their Corporate Social Responsibility.
